

Microsoft 365 Reporting

Accurate, relevant and timely reporting across all Microsoft 365 workloads enables businesses to understand their Cloud Office adoption progress against targets and report demonstrable return on investment. Microsoft provides usage data, but it's spread over multiple locations, gives little actionable insight and requires self-assembly.

InFlight Reporting provides a wide range of usage and tenant management reports for free, assembled into logical groupings and graphically represented to make the data easy to understand.

A product adoption dashboard gives an at-a-glance view of adoption progress by workload, with trend analysis over a 7 day and 30-day period, enabling assessment of benefits from improvements such as training or tenant configuration changes. Access to current service status is consolidated in the same dashboard to provide actionable insight into users' experience.

InFlight Reporting also improves communication quality using an automated, scheduled reporting capability to efficiently and effectively distribute useful information to the right people at the right time.

"Up to the minute visibility of how your Microsoft 365 environment is being used is key to employee engagement, the best return on investment and effective control of business risks"
